Another resolution submitted by the same committee, and which was adopted provides that all pupils attending the public schools shall be required to cover hooks furnished them by the board. In the event of failure of a pupil to cover his books within three days the pupil is to surrender them to the teacher, whose duty it shall be to report the dereliction forthwith to the principal.

The special committee, composed of Thomas, Edwards and Cummings, appointed to report upon the advisability of the board taking up the work of the night school conducted by Rev. I. Goshen, reported that the members of the committee had visited the school and committee had visited the school and found that it was doing a good work.

"We are convinced," said the committee, "that a vast amount of good can be done in this community by the establishment of a night school under the public school be instructed to prepare a course of study and that $500 be appropriated to defray the expenses of the school.

Mr. Cheesman objected to an immediate consideration of the report and it was referred to the committee of the whole, the committee is a pread in the school school.

Muzzle of His Gun.

While at work on a lock to effect an entrance into the office of the Redman Van & Storage company 126 South West Temple, C. H. Kirk was captured about midnight by Officer George Moore. As Officer Moore was passing the building he heard a noise inside and, going around to the back door, found that the lock had been broken. He walked inside and striking a match, saw Kirk crouched down by the office door, with a gun pointe at him. He dropped the match and go. in behind several trunks, where he would stand an even chance with the burglar. He ordered his man to drop his gun and throw up his hands.

Kirk tried to get out of the building, but Moore had him at his mercy, and the fellow finally delivered up, his weapon. Several trunks had been broken open and searched, but Officer Moore was unable to tell whether anything had been taken. When Kirk was caught he was at work with a saw on the lock on the office door. Two other locks, one on the upstairs door and the other on the door leading to the cellar, were broken, and considerable stuff was thrown about the room.
